Sky Sports has changed football. It used to be that the football coverage started at five to three, and there were only three cameras at the game. Nowadays there are player cameras, HD cameras, soft focus and long lens cameras. This is all great because you feel that you are actually at the game that you are watching. However the one thing that I hate is all the build up before the game. Just like the endless trailers at the cinema it seems to go on forever. These twenty minutes of stats and Ford adverts are known as the “prematch buildup.”

Pre means before and prefixes have long been popular hunting ground for examiners. So let's look and see what we need to know:

A prefix is a group of letters placed at the start of a root word to change its meaning. Some complicated words are less difficult to spell if you are familiar with prefixes.

A root word is a word that has nothing added at the beginning or the end. It stands on its own as a word. It has a meaning. New words can be made from root words by adding beginnings (prefixes) and endings (suffixes).

These are some root words.

use: useless, usable, used, using, user, misuse employ: employment, unemployment, employer, employee, employing manage: manager, managing, manages, manageable, unmanageable

Root words are called root words because other words grow from them.
